(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
FORT SHAFTER, July 21.—The Tuesday Evening Card Club met as usual this week at the administration building, with Capt. and Mrs. William E. Hunt, Mrs. Alden C. Knowles, Mrs. Julia E. Lohman, Lieut. and Mrs. Ralph C. Holliday, Mrs. Edward Fuller Witsell, Mrs. Charles A. Lewis, Lieut. and Mrs. Samuel J. Heidner, Miss Helen MacAdam, Dr. Harry M. Delber and Capt. and Mrs. John S. Sullivan present. Mrs. Charles A. Lewis was hostess and the prize was won by Mrs. Alden C. Knowles.

Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Curry, who have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. Thomas L. Crystal, for the past two months, left on the Niagara Friday for their home in the states. Mrs. Curry, who has been so ill for the last few months having recovered sufficiently to travel. Their many friends wish them a "bon voyage."

Lieut. and Mrs. George M. Halloran were the guests of Dr. Harry M. Delber on Wednesday night for dinner at the Young Hotel and afterwards on the roof garden, at which place dancing was enjoyed.

Col. and Mrs. William R. Dashiell and Mrs. Richmond N. Pearson were entertained by Lieut. and Mrs. Ralph C. Holliday on Sunday with noon dinner.

As a token of appreciation felt by the non-commissioned officers of Fort Shafter who have recently been made second lieutenants, a very elaborate dinner was tendered by them to their instructors in the school for candidates for commissions. This dinner was given at the Moana hotel in a private dining room on Thursday evening. A most enticing menu was prepared, and real Hawaiian music added spice to the entertainment. Lieut. Theodore J. Majewski, as toastmaster, was very witty in his remarks, many speeches being made, and all united in expressing a deep feeling of gratitude to their instructors. Col. William Weigel responded with a few appropriate remarks.

The instructors who were present at the dinner were: Col. William Weigel, Capt. Henry C. K. Muhlenberg, Lieut. Carl A. Hardigg, Lieut. Alfred Hobbie, Lieut. Frederick A. Barker, Lieut. Lester Baker, Lieut. Ralph C. Holliday, and Lieut. Eugene A. Lohman. Col. James A. Irons as post commander was also present. The new second lieutenants who were hosts at this delightful dinner were Lieut. Arthur A. Boren, Lieut. Paul Altman, Lieut. Christensen, Lieut. Lucius A. Miller, Lieut. Lee Cohen, Lieut. Eugene D. Calhoun, Lieut. Charles Johnson, Lieut. Theodore J. Majewski, Lieut. Clayborne F. Kearney, Lieut. James Johnson, Lieut. Stanley Satterwhite, Lieut. John J. Duffy, Lieut. Peter L. Grove, Lieut. Eugene B. McClellan, and Lieut. Joseph W. Gates.

Capt. and Mrs. Charles L. Wyman, and Charles, Jr., were the house guests of Capt. and Mrs. John S. Sullivan in the latter part of the week, having come in from Schofield Barracks to spend the last few days before leaving on the transport Sherman for their new assignment in the states.

Mrs. Carl A. Hardigg was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. McCandless, for the latter part of her stay on the island. While she was down town, Lieut. Hardigg was the guest of Capt. and Mrs. Charles A. Lewis, until his duties at the post were completed, when he joined Mrs. Hardigg for the time before sailing.

Capt. and Mrs. Alden C. Knowles were the dinner guests of Maj. and Mrs. William B. Cochran on Thursday evening.

Miss Dorothy Palmer was hostess at a delightful tea on Wednesday afternoon when she complimented Miss Evelyn Hodges, who returned to the mainland with her father, Gen. Hodges, on Saturday. After the guests had arrived a basket of many colored crepe tissue papers was brought forth, and each of the young ladies was requested to use her skill in fashioning a hat out of them. Miss Caroline Raymond received the prize for the most artistic chapeau, with Miss Ruth McChesney a close second. Miss McChesney was also given a prize. Miss Hodges was presented with a piece of Hawaiian straw work as a guest prize. The young ladies enjoying Miss Palmer's hospitality were Miss Evelyn Hodges, Miss Eame Damon, Miss Ramona Marks, Miss Ruth McChesney, Miss Dorothy Harker, Miss Martha McChesney, Miss Caroline Raymond, Miss Isabel Baker, Miss Dorothy McRay, Miss Hazel Nelson, Miss Doris Hyer and Miss Louise Clark.

Quite a jolly party from Fort Shafter attended the dance given on Tuesday by Maj. and Mrs. Eugene R. Householder at Schofield Barracks, in honor of their daughter, Mrs. Garrison, who has lately come from Manila and is going on to the states. The party who motored out to enjoy this affair were Mrs. Theodore A. Baldwin, Jr., Miss Dorothy Palmer, Lieut. Robert A. Sharrer, Lieut. Robert G. Guyer and Mr. Theodore J. Baldwin III.

Capt. and Mrs. William E. Hunt entertained delightfully on Wednesday evening with dinner for Col. and Mrs. William R. Dashiell, Mrs. Richmond N. Pearson and Mrs. Edward Fuller Witsell.

Capt. and Mrs. Alden C. Knowles were the guests of Maj. and Mrs. Charles S. Lincoln on Wednesday, when they enjoyed first a swim and then a delightful dinner at their home on the beach.

A wedding of interest to Fort Shafter was that of Miss Vera Henshaw and Capt. William E. R. Covell, which was solemnized at St. Clement's church on the morning of July 18. This attractive little church was daintily and effectively decorated with white and lavender astors, arranged gracefully in baskets tied with fluffy bows of tulle and with ferns and palms. Miss Henshaw, in her wedding gown of snowy white, made an entrancing picture as she came down the aisle to meet the groom at the altar, where Canon Ault pronounced the words of the impressive service which made them one.

Miss Henshaw was attended by her sister-in-law (herself a new bride) as matron of honor, and Capt. Paul S. Reinecke acted as the best man for Capt. Covell. Concluding the ceremony the solemn sacrament of the communion was partaken of, after which Capt. and Mrs. Covell left for a brief honeymoon on the other side of the island, and sailed on the transport today for the captain's new assignment in the states. Among the guests at the beautiful early morning wedding were: Maj. and Mrs. Guy G. Palmer, Miss Dorothy Palmer, Capt. and Mrs. Claire R. Bennett, Capt. and Mrs. Paul S. Reinecke, Capt. and Mrs. Raymond A. Bliss, Capt. and Mrs. George M. Duennner, Lieut. Joseph Haw, Lieut. Robert H. Guyer, Lieut. William H. Britton and Lieut. Robert A. Shannon.
